

THE LONG AGO AND THE WATER ON.

An Experience of Eighty Years of Life.

(BY GEORGE TISDALE BROMLEY.)

CHAPTER XIX (Continued.)

spend for the commodore, as they were about to propose his health.

"You will please excuse me," said "He is here, surrounded by wealthy friends who have known him since childhood, and I have never met the gentleman until today. It seems like a presumption to accept your invitation."

"One of the gentlemen said: 'Now, don't fool yourself, for amongst all these men with all their wealth, not one of them can make a speech.'"

"Then," said I, "I am the richest man of the party, and you may call on me to respond to the toast."

Before his health was proposed, the commodore came to me and said that his health was about to be proposed, and he would esteem it an especial favor if I would respond, and I said, "Why, certainly, Commodore," and then took another glass of punch.

The health was proposed and responded to, and never in my life has any speech of mine been received with such hearty approval. As we were leaving the Atlantic Hotel, Gould on the me good-by, remarked that he was very glad indeed that I was there to respond for his husband.

"For," said she, "it is the trial of his life to make a speech."

"Then," said I, "I am more than pleased to have saved him from the trial today."

If, my dear reader, what I am writing should savor slightly of egotism, I can't help it. For, at the present time, it is the nature of my calling, so please let it be so.

As the final race was to be sailed on the following day, we all remained on board the Ramona at Bay Ridge, and in my humble opinion there never has been, either on shore or afloat, a more right royal, genial gathering than the one the Ramona cabin held that night.

There were no more recitations and stories told that took us far into the night, but when morning came, we were ready to witness the final race, which proved to be no race at all, as the Valkyrie, after passing the starting line, to the astonishment of the thousands of spectators, put her helm up, wore round, and headed for Bay Ridge, where we found her calmly riding at anchor.

After seeing the Puritan safely round the stake boat to save the race, the next day we sailed for Larchmont, the home of Commodore Gillis, and the Larchmont Yacht club, where we were received with all the honors thereunto belonging.

After coming to Larchmont, I told the commodore that I would have to leave him in the morning, as I was to visit a relative at Eastern Point.

"All right," said he, "We will wait for you in New London and take you there."

And after spending a delightful evening at Larchmont and receiving an addition to the company in Mr. George A. Knight, a prominent lawyer of San Francisco, we sailed away for the Island of Long Island.

On the following day, we sailed away, and when all were gathered at the deck, "spinning yarns," I was reminded of my early experience of my own calling, and this is the story:

"Some sixty-four years ago I sailed out of New London as a cabin boy, on board a seventy-five ton schooner bound for the coast of Africa on a sailing voyage."

After relating to the interested listeners the particulars of my twenty-two months' voyage, Commodore Gillis spoke up, and said, "Now, boy, we will make an event of the sixty-four years ago. Uncle George sailed out of New London as a cabin boy on a seventy-five ton schooner."

Now, said the commodore, on going into New London he will be in charge of the Ramona, a hundred and ten ton schooner yacht, and no finer yacht ever sailed up Long Island Sound."

When he takes the helm every man on board, from the commodore to the cook, shall obey his orders."

When the commodore's lightship and New London lighthouse sailing master turned the helm over to me, now, said Commodore Gillis, you can give your orders, and they will be obeyed, even if the order is to jump overboard."

My first order after taking the helm was to order up the drinks, and it was obeyed with such alacrity that it was repeated until near the anchorage, when the company decided that when the commodore's brief authority I was a pronounced success. We came to anchor opposite the lovely summer resort of Eastern Point, but I had no idea where the cottage occupied by my relative.

But the commodore brought out his megaphone and brought it to bear on the gentlemen with the starboard command. "Tell Mr. Isaac Bromley that his Uncle George is on board the Ramona, and would like to speak with him."

Well, if a typhoon had struck the quiet little settlement it could not have created a greater sensation. All the boys and winnieys were excitedly occupied, but only one man ventured to leave his home, and he proved to be the gentleman sought after, the son of my brother Isaac.

Down to the wharf and invited us all up to his lovely cottage home. That we accepted the invitation goes without saying, and the call upon Isaac and his exceedingly interesting wife and lovely children was one of the most charming events of my eventful week.

Upon leaving the cheerful home of my nephew, he accompanied me across the harbor to New London, where we visited one of the most extensive fish markets in all New England, and while in conversation with one of the proprietors, I recognized that an old schoolmate of mine by the name of Russell Waterman, whom I had not seen for more than thirty years, had become a resident of the town, and I inquired of the gentleman if he knew him.

"Know him," said he, "I guess I do, and they don't make any better men than Captain Waterman. His office is on the wharf below here," said he. Then we all started for "the wharf below." Upon arriving I saw a man who appeared to be well along in years, and the striking resemblance to my father of some seventy-five years ago convinced me that he was the man and I said: "That's him." As we came together he said: "How do you do, gentlemen?" and we all said how do you do. Then said I:

"Are you Captain Waterman?"

"Yes," said he, with a puzzled look. "The Captain Waterman?"

"Are you 'Rus' Waterman?" I asked. (In our school days he was always called 'Rus').

"Now, you laid on," said he, and after thinking for a few moments.

"Yes," said he, "I'm 'Rus' Waterman, and you are George Bromley."

The recognition after all those years, was not only a great surprise, but an unfeigned delight and we "came together like a pair of shears." Then said I: "Rus," how long have you been living here?"

"About thirty-five years," said he.

"Then," said I, "you know where there is a good place to obtain liquid refreshments."

"You bet I do," said he, and he escorted me to the biggest hotel in the city, and engaging a private room, we took possession, and for a whole hour, with occasional interruptions in answer to the push of the button, that jolly party of gentlemen listened with intense interest while "Rus" and myself told of the happenings in the long ago, and this was the crowning glory of the scene from the time of leaving the Lamb's club to

Join the Ramona, to the bidding good-by to my old schoolmate, and then we sailed away for Larchmont, where I took the train for New York, and after a few days' stay, started for my boyhood's home in dear old Norwich.

On my way I again visited old Boston, and the first man I met upon entering the Parker house was my dear friend Captain Mack of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery.

The meeting was a very cordial one and resulted in mutual assurances of our distinguished consideration for each other, after which we were given seats on the hotel veranda, where we had an excellent view of the Boston police force as the parade marched by the hotel, and I am free to say that I have never seen a finer looking body of men than that coming through the Boston police.

When the procession had passed we started to return the way we came, when we found the room we had passed through an hour before, which was then only furnished with the usual furniture, had been transformed into a banquet room, and seated at a table bountifully supplied with the solids and liquids that make life worth living were twelve members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, and there were two vacant chairs awaiting the captain and myself.

Well, this was one of the surprises that we sometimes read about, but seldom experience. However, we were equal to the emergency, and for about three hours we had one of the times that were a credit to Boston.

After dinner and a refreshing nap, I looked over the evening paper, and was more than pleased to find that Sir Henry Irving was playing an engagement at the Tremont theater. I lost no time in getting there, and at the last moment I secured my ticket.

I left a note to this effect: "Sir Henry: I am here in the audience, and would be pleased to say 'How do you do' to you at the close of the performance."

Uncle George had been seated but a short time when a gentleman came to me, and said he: "Is this Mr. Bromley?"

I said it was.

"Then," said he, "Mr. Irving wishes you to come behind the scenes at the close of the second act."

All right," said I, "but how am I to get there?"

"Oh," said he, "I will come for you," and he did, and seated me in the property room. When Sir Henry came in, his appearance rather startled me.

He was playing in "Faust," and in his costume of gliding red, with his head surrounded by a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

What an overwhelming sense of the honor conferred, and just as I was getting myself together to express my grateful thanks, Sir Henry was called to the front, in a bewildered sort of way, I wandered back to my seat with the audience, but from that time on, though I was with them I was not of them.

Upon arriving at the hotel I was met by the four Kings of the Temple, and I had made a mistake in my estimate of the triennial convocation, and they had planned to have me on the program, and I was to be given by past commanders of the commandery of Boston a pair of splendid horns, he was a wonder to look upon, and as I rose to greet him, "Oh, Uncle George, I am so glad to see you," he exclaimed, and opened his arms and gave me a warm embrace.

"Now," said he, "I have only a few moments, but I want you to come to our hotel on Sunday with Miss Perry and myself, and I will send you tickets for the Saturday night performance."

Lodge Notes and Fraternal Interests.

Odd Fellows Elect—Foresters Officers Are Installed—Judge Ayling Represents Elks at Grand Lodge.

Uncas lodge, No. 11, held its semi-annual election of officers Monday evening at its regular meeting in Odd Fellows' hall, also working the third degree on two members, Noble Grand Frank L. Tuttle presiding. The list of officers elected was the following: N. G. George A. Burlington, Jr.; V. G. Edward S. Hinchey; secretary, John F. Amburn; treasurer, Frank E. Green. The appointive officers will be named at a meeting on Tuesday, July 21, by D. D. Jacob Wechsler of Jewett City.

Shetucket lodge, No. 27, also elected officers Tuesday evening at its regular meeting, when the past grand of Uncas lodge were present by special invitation. When called on by N. G. John A. Palmer, who presided, they responded in a pleasing manner. The following were the officers elected: N. G. John McHaffie; V. G. Harold T. Sargent; recording secretary, Louis MacBrey; treasurer, E. B. Miner. Ice cream was served at the close of the evening.

DEGREE OF POCAHONTAS. Sebequoan council, No. 11, had a good attendance Monday evening at its meeting in Foresters' hall, and as visitors the Great Pocahontas, Alice Hurlsthal of Bridgeport, and the Great Keeper of Records and Seals, Maggie Ives of Hartford. They were both heard from in remarks of interest upon the progress of the order, Pocahontas Della Bailey presiding.

The semi-annual election was held with the following results: Pocahontas, Agnes Dean; Winona, Ada Lathrop; Grace, Grace Thorpe and Mary La-calle; runners, Marguerite Beckham and Helen Clark; inside guard, Louis Manchester; outside guard, Mary Chappell; representatives to grand council in Wallingford the third Wednesday in October, Nettie Kinne; alternate, Maria Burton.

The Neosha club continues its social season with a baked-bean supper and visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer of East Broad street, next Thursday.

ELKS. Starting from Hartford, Monday, Judge Nelson J. Ayling, representing Norwich lodge, No. 430, accompanied by Mrs. Ayling, will be off with a party of Connecticut members of the order in a special car to join the Elks' train of Massachusetts Elks en route to the 46th session of the Grand Lodge at Los Angeles, July 12 to 17. On the way out there will be stops at Chicago, Colorado Springs, and an optional trip through the Grand Canyon.

On Monday morning, July 12, the train will arrive in Los Angeles, and the party will remain for five days, leaving Friday, July 16. On the return the Elks will go to San Francisco and will spend several days at the Alaska-Yukon exposition at Seattle, continuing on the Canadian Pacific Railroad through Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal, reaching home August 8.

Preparations for this annual meeting have been practically completed by the reunion committee and what is being done will be the most complete, most gorgeous and most novel entertainment in the history of the order has been planned for the pleasure of the members. To carry out the plan of entertainment will involve the expenditure of more than $100,000, which has already been subscribed.

Great preparations have been made by the committee and citizens to carry out a complete color scheme of purple and gold. The decorations of the Elks and the program for the occasion of this meeting provides many new and novel features, the like of which has never before been seen at gatherings of the kind. The entertainment will, it is stated, be the most elaborate and costly ever held in Southern California.

FORESTERS. A meeting of Court City of Norwich, No. 62, held in Foresters' hall, Friday night, was largely attended by many Foresters from other cities who will be our guests for the celebration. Interesting reports and remarks were made which were surprising to the guests, showing that Forestry was spreading in this country. The meeting was initiated into the mysteries of the order.

The following officers were installed, to act for the next six months, by D. C. R. Joseph D. Pfeiffer, assisted by his worthy herald, T. A. Carey: C. R. William Weldon; S. C. R. William Mahoney; recording secretary, John F. Malone; S. W. Charles Bourne; J. W. George H. Dolan; S. B. William Nelbert; J. B. William Harvey; lecturer, John Donahue.

D. C. R. Joseph D. Pfeiffer made very interesting remarks which carried his hearers from the infancy of Forestry to the present time. He thanked the court for the honor of having him as D. C. R. of Court City of Norwich, No. 62.

Chief Ranger William Weldon appointed the following committees to act for the ensuing year: Finance committee, F. J. Murtha, John Donahue, Irving Benjamin; nominating committee, John J. O'Neil, Frank Murtha, and M. V. Murphy; arbitration committee, William Callahan, J. F. Malone, Charles McGilvery, B. C. Hannis, William Buckley, N. LaValley; sick and visiting committee, T. A. Carey, F. Looby, C. Crowley, E. Malone, Fred Wilmshurst, T. Lynch, George C. Madden, C. J. Downes, William Ward, E. T. Burke, D. Discol, John O'Brien, Jackson D. Brown, J. F. Mahoney, J. F. Malone and P. Hansen.

WESTERLY CONCERN. READY TO COME. Alfred Neuburger Anxious to Start Local Plant First of August.

"I grow more pleased with my new plant in this city every time I see it," said Alfred Neuburger of Westerly, who was here this week looking over the new industrial building which he will occupy with his silk throwing company during the month and hopes to be running by or soon after the first of August, occupying the entire three floors.

His plant in Westerly has stopped work and the machinery is being wiped up preparatory to being brought to this city. It will, probably be brought on the Norwich and Westerly road as far as the East Side bridge, where it will be loaded onto teams and taken to the factory. The business will occupy the entire building and Mr. Neuburger will make his home here.

WEDDING DECORATIONS AND BRIDAL BOUQUETS For June Weddings.

We would like to call your attention to the fact that we are one of the few people in this city who know how to make up Bridal Bouquets and Wedding Decorations. Try us and see for yourself if what we say isn't true.

GEDULDIG'S, Telephone 863, 77 Cedar Street. may125

Special for Next Month at Mill Remnant Store, 201 W. Main St.

Ten thousand yards of Fine Dress Goods, Silks and Fancy Cotton Goods, 2 to 36 yard lengths for sale at one-third of regular cost price. The car brings you to the door. Don't forget the place.

MILL REMNANT STORE, 201 West Main St. je125

THE MOHICAN COMPANY

This Store will be Closed Monday the 5th at 10 o'clock. Also Tuesday the 6th at 12 o'clock.

LEGS OF GENUINE LAMB - lb. 16c

SMALL SUGAR CURED HAMS - lb. 16c

FORE OF GENUINE LAMB - lb. 12c

PRESSED HAM - lb. 12c

MINCED HAM - lb. 12c

FRANKFURTERS - lb. 12c

POLISH BOLOGNA - lb. 10c

boneless Rump Corned Beef lb. 12c

Rib Corned Beef - lb. 7c

MOHICAN CREAMERY BUTTER - lb. 28c

FRESH SWEET PEAS - pk. 35c

FRESH BEETS - bunch 5c

New POTATOES - pk 30c

ORANGES - doz. 20c

BAKER'S COCOA - can 19c

OLIVES, Stuffed or Plain - 2 bots. 17c

ALASKA SALMON - can 9c

MOHICAN JELLY POWDER - pkg 9c

FANCY LUNCH TONGUE - can 25c

PACKAGE CORN STARCH - 1 lb. 10c

1 lb. PEARL TAPIOCA - 10c

Piece Work. The job of being a democratic statesman these days seems to be mostly on piece work - Indianapolis News.

Life 100,000 Years Ago. Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. Today the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexandria, Mo., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure Sore Throats, Colds, obstructed Coughs, and prevent pneumonia, it's the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed by The Lee & Osgood Co. Trial bottles free.

Sees Mother Grow Young. "It would be hard to overstate the wonderful change in my mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gillette of Danforth, Me. "Although past 70, she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked wonders for her health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure Liver and Kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at The Lee & Osgood Co.

Delay in taking Foley's Kidney Remedy may have backache, kidney or bladder trouble, fastens the disease upon you and makes a cure more difficult. Commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy today and you will soon be well. Why risk a serious malady? Lee & Osgood Co.

Some people look upon tea as a mere drink. It all depends upon the tea. "Salada" Tea is a delicious and refreshing beverage. Sold only in sealed lead packets.

LUCKY! Just learned that Gold Medal Flour is sifted five times through finest silk. EGERTIA.

THE MOHICAN COMPANY

This Store will be Closed Monday the 5th at 10 o'clock. Also Tuesday the 6th at 12 o'clock.

LEGS OF GENUINE LAMB - lb. 16c

SMALL SUGAR CURED HAMS - lb. 16c

FORE OF GENUINE LAMB - lb. 12c

PRESSED HAM - lb. 12c

MINCED HAM - lb. 12c